Dear Parents/Guardians,

First and foremost, I hope everyone, and their loved ones had a wonderful summer. My name is Marletta Barrow, Parent Coordinator and I would like to take this opportunity to welcome all of our students and families back for the 2021-2022 academic school year. It has been a roller coaster ride during these difficult times. COVID-19 has brought us many challenges not only to our students but to every adult in the world. My role as Parent Coordinator is to support all our I.S. 303 families by answering questions or concerns you may have regarding your child's academic or social life at I.S. 303. We at I.S. 303 are here to guide, support, and help our students, parents and staff in any way possible. Our communities have been strongly affected by this pandemic, where many families experienced loss and unprecedented times. Our sole focus is to direct students back on the right path to becoming stronger and educated. Over the past year and a half, we have adjusted to the new norm and we have prepared our students to be successful no matter what the circumstances are. One of my goals for this year is to bring you various workshops that are geared to help you and your family. I strongly encourage that you stay informed with your child and their education. I understand that circumstances often prevent families from coming into the school, therefore I am asking for every parent to please provide your child's teacher your personal email address so we can stay connected on important topics and announcements. I encourage everyone to visit our school website is303.com and the New York City Department of Education website schools.nyc.gov for the most up to date information about our school and the New York City school system. In this packet, I have included important information for you to become familiar with. If anyone needs to contact me, you can contact me in 1 of the 3 ways listed below. Let's work together to ensure your child is successful and has a successful year.
